IV. COMMITTEE REPORTS

A. Committee on Academic Affairs

- i. Jim Grace said his committee is working on setting up meeting times and they hope to meet next week.

B. Committee on Community Relations

- i. Josh Pasquesi said that his committee was busy all summer. They worked on the freshman tour and off campus tour, which both went very well. They also worked in the Mayor's office for the fair. In addition, his committee worked on a brochure as a guide to the community. About 160 students signed up for the tour. There were various pizza vendors and a fondue station as well for the students who participated. The off campus fair went very well also. At the off campus fair, there were 19 gift certificates auctioned off. This year, the committee will work on providing legal consultation and will also work with Lizzi about changes and rules regarding the ordinance passed.

C. Committee on Social Concerns

- i. Sheena said her committee will begin meeting next week to form agenda for this coming year.

D. Committee on Gender Issues

- i. Ashley Weiss said her committee has been working tirelessly over the summer on the projects they wish to pursue this year. Her group will be meeting next week and they have already received a strong response from various departments that will be working with them on their projects. They are currently working on their proposal and theme.
- i. Bill Andrichik introduced Kevin who will be the proposed male chair for gender issues. He will be approved at the Council of Representatives next Tuesday.

E. Committee on Residence Life

- i. Pat Knapp said housing this year is at 102% capacity. His committee will be working on extending move out days and also creating a café in the library.

F. Committee on University Affairs

- i. Aly Baumgartner said her committee will be meeting next week. They were working on the Catholic Think Tank, which was rejected, but they will continue to look for speakers. They also want to put together an update on the academic freedom issue from last year along with working on student-alumni relations.

G. Committee on Oversight

- i. Chris Hollon will be sending an email out tonight about meeting times. They have two things to work on. First, they want to put together some sort of format for monthly reports that each committee can hand in to future committees. Second, they will try to develop a calendar with dates throughout the constitution and make sure there are no overlaps on dates.

H. Committee on Multicultural Affairs

- i. Destinee Delemos says her committee's first meeting will be next week. They will work on international student affairs. They will also work with the career center in finding opportunities for international students. In addition, they will begin planning for Black History month.

I. Communications

- i. Alex French said there are some problems with the student government email account but it is currently being taken care of. He is working on advertising for the classified section on Inside ND. He also said stall notes should be ready next week.
